

Tactical Awareness Situation

4.4.2 building play up from the back

Your team is defending in the shape given below. Your right back has won possession from the opposition's wide midfielder, and has elected to pass back to the goalkeeper. As the diagram below shows your team has employed a 4.4.2 formation. Your task is to place each player in their final position in order to build up play out of the back.

Print out the diagram and position each attacking player in the final position you feel provides the best opportunity of maintaining possession as the ball is passed out from your goalkeeper to your right center back.

While there may be several ways to shape up the attack in the situation below, ASET will post one way to organize the team for this specific situation and provide reasons for doing so in the upcoming weeks.
